"I don't know what to do with [breasts] because I've never had them," Kunis (in L.A. Feb. 2) joked. "All of a sudden I'm busty!"

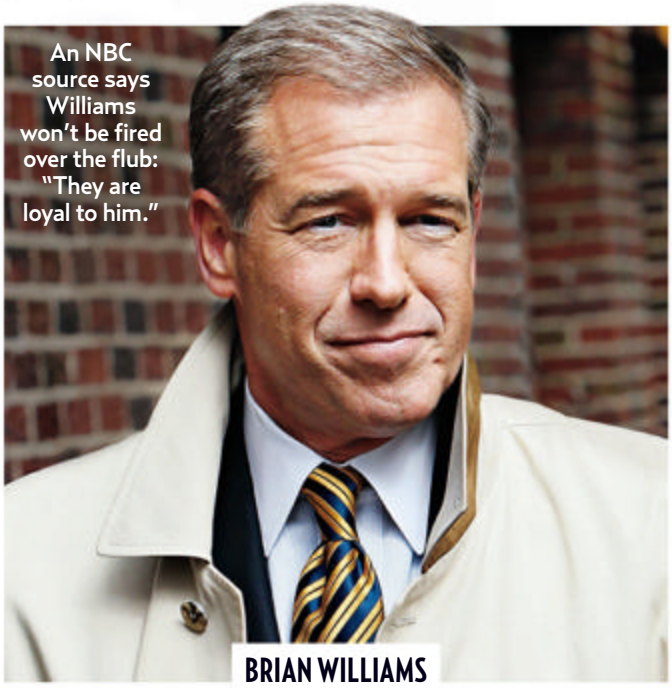

JILL JOHNSON/IPISTUDIOS.COM

MILA KUNIS MY NEW LIFE WITH BABY!

Mama's stepping out! Four months after welcoming daughter Wyatt with fiancé Ashton Kutcher, Mila Kunis opened up about motherhood on her Jupiter Ascending press tour. Calling parenting "the most challenging job," the actress, 31, admits she struggles with separation anxiety. "I was with her every day for the first four months of her little life. I cried," she told Jimmy Kimmel of leaving her tot to attend the film's February 2 premiere. "It's a very weird feeling to all of a sudden leave your child." Wrapping her mind around a bilingual home has been easier. "I speak Russian to the baby all the time," the Ukrainian-born star said February 5. "And Ashton's taking Russian lessons."

AT-HOME HARMONY But Iowa-bred Kutcher, 36, is making sure Wyatt also gets a dose of his all-American upbringing. "If it was up to him, she would be the very first female professional NFL coach," Kunis said. "[He forced] her to watch football every Sunday, Monday night and Thursday night." Still, parenting has only strengthened the bond between the duo of three years. "They are 100 percent committed to each other and their family," says a source. In fact, neither actor has taken a post-Wyatt role. "I am proud to be a stay-at-home mom," says Kunis. "Everything has changed because of her."

By Jamie Blynn, April Daley, Sarah Grossbart & Ashley Spencer

An NBC source says Williams won't be fired over the flub: "They are loyal to him."

BRIAN WILLIAMS

A Flight of Fancy?

Brian Williams issued a special report February 4: The NBC News anchor, 55, admitted he "made a mistake in recalling" an oft-repeated tale of his helicopter being shot down in Iraq. The confession came after NBC posted his news broadcast about Sergeant Major Tim Terpak — the man Williams claimed saved him in the 2003 attack — on Facebook, prompting the chopper's engineer to comment, "Sorry, dude, I don't remember you being on my aircraft." Williams recanted, saying he was actually "in a following aircraft," and blamed the mix-up on "the fog of memory."

US POLL OF THE WEEK

Readers of Usmagazine.com weigh in

Did Sports Illustrated Go Too Far?

Derek Jeter's girlfriend, Hannah Davis, 24, covers Sports Illustrated's 2015 swimsuit issue in barely there bikini bottoms.

SAID YES

DAKOTA SUFFERED FOR THE ROLE

Playing Anastasia Steele was painful for Dakota Johnson, 25 — even outside of the infamous Red Room. "I had more waxing than any woman should have!" she says. "[And] I got whiplash once from [Jamie Dornan] throwing me on the bed."

EXPOSED!

Secrets of Fifty Shades

Get enlightened before Fifty Shades of Grey hits February 13

JAMIE DID REAL-LIFE RESEARCH

Dornan, 32, visited a London sex dungeon for insight into Christian Grey's psyche. Post–kinky show, he says, "going back to my wife [Amelia Warner, 32] and newborn baby . . . I had a long shower before touching either of them."

RITA ORA STUDIED UP

For her transformation into Christian's studious (and brunette!) sister Mia, British singer Rita Ora, 24, says she practiced French, an American accent and "really just not being me."

THAT SCENE IS OUT

The book's most cringeworthy moment (read: tampon removal as foreplay) didn't make the cut. "It was never even discussed," quips director Sam Taylor-Johnson.

FULL FRONTAL? NOT QUITE

"There were contracts in place that said that viewers wouldn't be seeing my todger," says Dornan, who adds Christian's manhood was "tucked away."

IT'S BANNED IN MALAYSIA

The flick, rated R in the United States, failed to pass Malaysia's Film Censorship Board, which dubbed it "pornography" and blasted its S&M scenes as "not of natural sexual content."

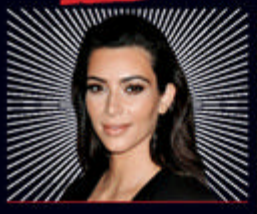

THEY BATTLED ON THE SET

While filming, Taylor-Johnson, 47 (right), admits she and author E.L. James, 51, "fought, but they were creative fights. . . . It was difficult, I'm not going to lie."

Stars With Fifty Shades Fever

KIM KARDASHIAN
"OMG it's sooooo good!" the star, 34, tweeted while hosting a private "girls' night" screening of the film February 3. Left out: sister Kendall Jenner, 19, who replied, "No invite?"

RYAN SEACREST
His interest is purely academic. "I'm using it as a manual," the TV host, 40, cracked of the racy tome in 2012. "It can be a study book. . . . Parts of it can be a workbook."

JOHN MAYER
The 37-year-old singer once used a page of James' prose to seduce a woman. "I said, 'I'm going to sing it to you,'" he shared in 2012. "She fell on the ground laughing."

VICTORIA BECKHAM
After reading the first novel, the designer, 40, nabbed a copy for her mom. But there's no book club in the works: "I don't really want to talk to my mother about S&M."

DANIEL RADCLIFFE
Valentine's date! "It looks pretty sexy, so I'm sure [my girlfriend and I] will be going to see it," the actor, 25, tells Us of checking out the film with love Erin Darke.

WHAT'S IN MY BAG?

How good is this?! Rachael Ray, 46, pours out her purse for Us

This chef's Ziplocs aren't just for her signature sammies. "I don't think I've ever had a real makeup bag," admits the host of the syndicated Rachael Ray show and founder of the #9MillionMeals campaign. "I just steal my husband's ChapStick and carry Visine and Aleve in a plastic baggie. But I do love Dior lip gloss!" What else does Ray, wed to lawyer John Cusimano, 47, have cooking in her Campomaggi tote?

GO BIG OR GO HOME
"My Il Bisonte wallet is very big! I keep all my receipts in there. Plus, it can fit my passport, so I use it while I travel too."

THROWING SHADES
"Right now, I have Dita sunglasses with me. I go through about 12 pairs a year because somehow I always lose the glasses — but never the cases!"

SEASONAL SOUNDS
"My husband and I are '80s kids and love mixtapes. So for all the holidays, he makes me a fantastic playlist. I listen to them on my iPhone, which I just got."

PLAY IT SAFE
"I make sure to have Band-Aids. But usually when I hurt myself cooking, it's too serious for them to help."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
"I write down every single recipe idea in Decomposition Books, which are made out of recycled paper. I have every recipe from the past 20 years!"

WHAT THE STARS SAID THIS WEEK

"The most important thing for me as a mom is to keep my word. When I say no, I mean no. If I give in to them, they know they can get away with it."
On raising kids Benjamin and Vivian,
Gisele Bündchen

"In my early twenties I went to at least 10 dinner parties as someone's 'plus 1' only to find no extra chair, no extra food and frowns."
Lena Dunham

"My dad. Or Jesus. Or Marilyn Monroe. I can't decide."
On who she would want to take a selfie with,
◂ Kim Kardashian

"I pay my daughter's phone bill, and I know the pass code. If you're a parent who has concerns and worries, you have every right to snoop around."
Melanie Brown

"I checked it. He's so handsome, I would've said 'OK' anyway."
On her engagement ring from Joe Manganiello,
▸ Sofia Vergara

"My favorite love story: Titanic. It was three hours in the dark, away from my parents. I got my first kiss. That's the greatest gift a movie can give."
▲ Miles Teller

"Now that we use our phones & text everything, do you think handwriting experts are having a hard time finding work? I'm so worried for them."
Olivia Munn

"Sports Illustrated laid off all its photographers. Good luck finding someone willing to take pictures of hot swimsuit models for free."
Conan O'Brien

"People will be like, 'Are you in the bathroom?' But I'll just respond, 'No, I'm not. It must be on your end of the phone.'"
▲ Chelsea Handler

"It's weird to wake up in the middle of the night 45 times and always be in a good mood."

David's Forever Valentine

Time has only deepened David Oyelowo's affection for his wife. "I've been married for 16 years now and I'm very, very in love," the Selma star, 38, tells Us of Jessica, an actress. And the Oxford, England, native still manages to keep the mother of his four kids guessing. "We alternate who plans Valentine's Day," he says. "It's my turn this year, so I have to come up with something!"

They hit a Jan. 2 Selma bash in Palm Springs, CA.

They partied at his Jupiter Ascending premiere Feb. 2 in L.A.

Channing & Jenna
Their Happy Home

Jenna Dewan Tatum got a sneak peek at Channing Tatum's stripteases for July's Magic Mike XXL. "She gave him advice on his routines," a Tatum insider says of the actress, who met her husband on 2006's dance flick Step Up. But Tatum's G-rated work — taking care of their 21-month-old daughter, Everly — impresses her most. "He's an amazing, loving dad," Dewan Tatum tells Us. The pair of eight years, both 34, are considering expanding their family. "When the time is right," she says, "it would be great!"

TAYLOR VS. KATY
Grammy Standoff!

Ice queens! Swift and Perry just can't let it go

The feud that sparked Taylor Swift's scathing track "Bad Blood" reached a boiling point in the Staples Center February 8. Intentionally seated at the opposite end of the front row by Grammy organizers, Katy Perry, 30, brushed past the "Shake It Off" singer, 25, during a commercial break. Swift's save: "Taylor kept her eyes glued to her phone until Perry passed by," says an onlooker of the stars, who've both dated John Mayer. Still, Swift seemed eager to put other battles to bed. After chatting up Kanye West, 37, during the show, she posed with Perry's ex Diplo, 36 (inset), at Sam Smith's party in L.A.'s Bel Air later that night. (Last fall, the DJ endorsed a Kickstarter "to get taylor swift a booty.") But Swift checked her goodwill at the dance floor. While Perry rocked out with pals inside Smith's bash, Swift intently ignored her and whispered with Andrew Hozier. In fact, the "Take Me to Church" rocker, 24, stayed close to Swift all night. But the pair are just flirty friends. Adds a source, "It's not romantic. She's just a huge fan!"

Despite once calling her "scary," Perry's ex Diplo snapped a pic with Swift Feb. 8.

So nice, they celebrated twice! Five days after Johnny Depp, 51, and Amber Heard, 28, tied the knot at their West Hollywood estate, the newlyweds did it again on the actor's 45-acre private island in the Bahamas February 8. "It was a simple sunset ceremony," says a source of the seaside nuptials. As Heard made her way down an aisle strewn with pink petals, she was trailed by blush-clad bridesmaids, including Depp's daughter, Lily-Rose, 15 (mom is ex Vanessa Paradis, 42). Waiting for Heard at the altar: the Mortdecai star and his son, Jack, 12, both in white jackets. Prior to watching the duo "exchange personal vows," the source says, guests spent the weekend exploring the $3.6 million hideaway and relaxing in khaki tents. "Everyone hung out drinking and listening to music," says the source. They also snorkeled and took selfies in the water!

SECRET PASTS

Before Chris Soules found his true love, he had to find out who was telling the truth! BY ERIC ANDERSSON

As Playboy.com's Jade Elizabeth, Roper was listed as 32D-24-36.

She stressed about penning a love song on the Feb. 9 episode.

Soules (photographed Sept. 27 in Agoura Hills, CA) was once engaged to his college sweetheart.

To harvest the perfect wife from a crop of 30 women, corn farmer Chris Soules set high standards. "I like someone who's active, with a healthy lifestyle," the star of The Bachelor recently told Us. "Someone who's independent and career-oriented and successful." Aside from wanting a family, the future Mrs. Soules must also be sincere and forthright. "It's important," he continued, "to be honest with me."

It wouldn't be The Bachelor without its share of deception. Several of the beauties competing for Soules' affection — including three front-runners — kept jaw-dropping secrets from the chiseled Arlington, Iowa, native, 33. Wholesome-seeming Jade Roper posed fully nude for Playboy.com pictorials and videos in 2012. Kaitlyn Bristowe's life in the spotlight (she dated two pro athletes and appeared in a 2012 music video) didn't jibe with that of a farmer's wife. Reserved Becca Tilley was a virgin who kept seeing Soules despite lukewarm feelings. And one contestant even slept with another man right before taping The Bachelor, resulting in a pregnancy scare. The deceptions stung, explains a show source: "Chris had already developed feelings for certain girls." Us investigates the women who weren't up-front with the Bachelor.

Sweet Jade got naked for Playboy

Roper downplays the two pictorials and videos she shot for Playboy.com in 2012, telling Us they were "a one-time thing." But on the show, the Gering, Nebraska, native, 28, debated whether to tell Soules. Explains a show source, who says Roper never disclosed her past during the casting process: "It's not something you reveal on night one."

Or nights two or three or four. As Roper — a woman Soules called "perfection" upon meeting — got to know the Bachelor, she opened up about everything from her previous engagement to her struggle to make friends after moving to L.A. Her ambition (she developed her own line of cosmetics, Naturally Jade) even impressed Soules' three sisters, who handpicked Roper on the January 26 episode to join their brother on a Cinderella-theme date. As for her full-frontal shots, "the longer she went without saying anything, the bigger a secret it became," says the show source. "Jade was very stressed about sharing this with him."

When Roper finally fessed up, "they watched the Playboy video on a computer together," says a source, who confirms the heart-to-heart will air in a future episode. After seeing her writhe around nude on a chaise, "Chris had a bit of an issue with it, but it wasn't a deal-breaker for him."

Soules' less-liberal mom didn't share that opinion. The source says

> "I FELT LIKE A MAJORITY OF THE GIRLS WERE THERE FOR THE RIGHT REASONS. I WAS PRETTY FORTUNATE."
> SOULES TELLS US

Ashley's Trail of Tears

Soules' most recent reject told many (sob) stories

A tidal wave of emotion! "I cry easily," nanny Ashley Iaconetti, 26, tweeted January 25. No kidding: The proud virgin admitted January 25 that even McDonald's Happy Meals choke her up. On the show, her waterworks were set off January 19 when Jillian Anderson, 25, refused to leave the hot tub. The following week, Iaconetti broke down after Roper earned the princess date. Her final hysterics came when she was let go February 9. "It's just so stupid," she bawled to Soules, "that every time I'm around you, I have to cry!"

Soules said he liked Bristowe (center, on the Feb. 9 show) because "she's real."

On the Feb. 9 episode, Soules and Tilley connected in South Dakota's Black Hills.

Soules and Roper waltzed and made out on the Jan. 26 episode.

Linda Rae Soules "freaked out" off camera when her boy said the P-word — and that negative take may have impacted Roper's future: "Chris really liked Jade. But he had to think of who would fit in in Iowa. That was first and foremost in his mind."

Life of the party Kaitlyn hungers for the spotlight

"You can plow the f--k out of my field," the Vancouver, British Columbia, dance instructor told Soules when they first met. That bold come-on was blatant play to get people talking, says a family source: "She's milking this. She loves attention!"

To use a well-worn Bachelor phrase, Bristowe "was not there for the right reasons," says the show source. Namely, the 29-year-old saw the dating competition as a fast track to Hollywood. Turns out, The Bachelor wasn't her first attempt to capture the limelight. A friend confirms she has dated professional NHL athletes Boyd Gordon, 31, and Alexandre Bolduc, 29. And in 2012, a lingerie-clad Bristowe lent her vocals to a sexy music video. "She's an aspiring actress," says a family source. "Kaitlyn went on the show because she wants to be famous — not for love."

Under Bristowe's spell, Soules was blind to her ambition. He granted the boisterous brunette a coveted one-on-one date on the January 19 episode. Though the outing was spartan by Bachelor standards — instead of helicoptering over the Grand Canyon, they shopped for food at Costco and made a meal back at his place — Bristowe told the farmer exactly what he wanted to hear. "It was SHOWERGATE!

As the franchise's scandals go, Britt Nilsson's hygiene habits are an oddity (well, along with Tanner Pope's foot fetish from Jillian Harris' season). Us recounts a tale for the history books.

Jan. 5

At the premiere party, host Chris Harrison asks alum Michelle Money for her impression of Nilsson. "I heard a rumor," Money spills. "I heard she doesn't shower."

Jan. 6

"Maybe I'm just conserving water!" counters the accused, 27, on Instagram (right), adding, "#showersareforwimps."

Jan. 26

On the show, the girls start to whisper. "Britt doesn't take off her makeup. Period," Iaconetti sneers. "She wears it to bed."

Feb. 2

After Nilsson scores a one-on-one, housemate Carly Waddell, 29, advises her to shave her legs and wash her hair. And when Soules awakens his date at 4:32 A.M., her lipstick and eye makeup are all fresh — "Definitely a red flag," Harrison said on TVGuide.com.

Soules said her morning look is "just as beautiful" as "when she's all dolled up."

nice to do something normal," she said. The show source says her aww-shucks attitude was an act: "This wasn't somebody who was interested in settling down in Arlington, Iowa."

Secret virgin Becca is saving herself for Mr. Right

Unlike fellow contestant Ashley "I'm a virgin — I'm not even kidding!" Iaconetti, 25-year-old Tilley kept quiet about her sexual history for quite a while. The shy chiropractic assistant from San Diego only spilled to the other women after Iaconetti had a meltdown on the January 26 episode. (Quick recap: Having revealed to Soules that she still had her V card, the Kim Kardashian look-alike convinced herself she would not get a rose.) Tilley's disclosure, however, didn't leave the house. Says the show source, "She didn't feel the need to bring it up to Chris." By the time she did say something, Soules was surprised. "He thought there was only one virgin," says the source, "but he was totally understanding."

> "THERE'S 30 WOMEN. NOT EVERYBODY IS 100 PERCENT WHO THEY SAY THEY ARE. IT'S JUST LIKE DATING."
> HOST CHRIS HARRISON TELLS US

A lack of fantasy suite experience is one thing, but lack of passion is another. "Becca wasn't that into Chris," says the show source. Though they shared a romantic moment on the January 19 episode, Tilley resisted a kiss. "I don't want to rush," she explained. When the two finally locked lips on the February 9 episode, she was the last of the nine remaining women to kiss him. For Soules, it was worth the wait. "Becca is beautiful," he gushed on their horseback-riding date. Though Tilley never matched his enthusiasm, Soules kept her around. "Chris really liked her," says the show source. "But he wasn't her usual type."

One of the contestants had a pregnancy scare

"I'm ready for a family," Soules told Us recently — but probably not one conceived right before he met the woman in question. The source reveals that in a segment cut from the final edit, a contestant took a pregnancy test after missing her period. "She'd slept with somebody before leaving for the show and she thought she might be pregnant." (She wasn't.)

The scandal was teased in a promo, but Soules only learned of it after taping wrapped. And he can laugh about it, since he eliminated the woman early on. "I can say that, no, I am not [the baby-daddy]," the Bachelor joked to Entertainment Tonight. "I had nothing to do with the pregnancy test."

Despite the secrets, Soules got his happy ending. "As it got to the finish," says the source, "Chris was left with women who really cared for him." US

The Kelsey Controversy

» "Psycho!" sniped one of many commenters on Kelsey Poe's Facebook page after the February 2 episode. The widow had bragged that losing husband Sanderson to heart failure in 2013 made for a "tragic but amazing" story. The 28-year-old's ensuing panic attack (was it fake?) brought hostility from her costars — but sister Taylor Persons, 22, says Poe is just misunderstood. "The show put her in a bad light," she tells Us of the Austin-based guidance counselor, who Soules eliminated February 9. "She loves how she picked up the pieces and got her life back."

"I have no regrets," Poe (with Soules) said in her final confessional.

"Kelsey's sane!" Persons says of her sister (right).

25 Things You Don't Know About Me

Prince Farming shares a few kernels of trivia

ABC's The Bachelor airs Mondays at 8 P.M. (plus Sunday, Feb. 15!).

1. My childhood dog was named Dutch. I built a campground for him and named it Chris and Dutch's Playground.
2. I played with Barbie dolls as a kid. My sisters made me!

3. I named my Barbie Shaulin. Don't ask why.

4. I went to Iowa State but am more of a University of Iowa football fan. (I still cheer for ISU if they're not playing the Hawkeyes.)

5. My guilty pleasure is Oreos and milk.

6. I wear John Varvatos cologne.
7. When I was 10, my dad let me drive his car while sitting on his lap so he could take a nap.
8. I can't sing at all. I can dance . . . a little.
9. I am a huge Chicago Bears fan.
10. Two of my three brothers-in-law are named Jason.
11. I dated three sisters from the same family. Arlington is a small town!

12. I learned to drive a tractor before I learned to drive a car.

13. I always wanted to be a farmer.
14. I'm a heavy sleeper. I could sleep through an earthquake.
15. I seriously thought fewer than 10 girls would show up on the first night of The Bachelor. I didn't believe 30 women would want to date me.
16. I tan really easily — true farmer tan.
17. I'd love to get certified in scuba, but that's kind of hard to do in Northeast Iowa.
18. When I was really small, I built my own golf course. My playing partner: Dutch! (See No. 1.)
19. My ancestors were on the Mayflower.
20. As a kid, I once got scared by a raccoon out by my treehouse, and I threw a hammer into the air that hit my best buddy, Jake, in the head. Jake's fine! I think.

21. I own some livestock, but only a couple of them have names. Jessica is the prettiest. Bennett is the biggest.

22. My favorite food (other than Mom's cooking) is the taco pizza at Rod & Cal's in Strawberry Point. Extra sour cream and salsa!
23. I can grill a mean steak.

24. Jennifer Aniston is my celebrity crush.

25. I lost my front tooth when it got caught on the net while I was trying to do a reverse dunk like Michael Jordan.

TRAGEDY AFTER TRIUMPH

Taking charge of his gender transition, Bruce Jenner tapes a TV interview — only to endure a deadly crash days later

BY KEVIN O'LEARY

Everything was going according to Bruce Jenner's plan. Fresh off taping an interview with ABC News anchor Diane Sawyer, in which he opened up about his transition to living as a woman, he took a quick trip to New York City. The athlete left his luxurious room at the Mandarin Oriental Hotel for several Starbucks runs, even obliging one fan with a selfie February 5. "He seemed comfortable and relaxed," the fan says of Bruce, who is filming a docuseries about his transformation. "He was happy."

But life can change in an instant. Back home in Malibu two days later, Bruce was towing a dune buggy from his Escalade on the Pacific Coast Highway at 12:15 P.M. when the Lexus sedan in front of him rear-ended a Prius. Bruce, 65, swerved but could not avoid slamming into the Lexus, propelling it into oncoming traffic, where it was struck by a Hummer. The driver, 69-year-old Kim Howe, was killed and five others were injured. While emergency workers were still on the scene, online outlets rushed to blame Bruce for the crash, accusing him of texting or speeding to elude photographers. "This couldn't have come at a worse time for him," notes a friend of Keeping Up With the Kardashians' father figure. "He is in a state of shock." The following night, Bruce said as much to Us in a statement: "It is a devastating tragedy and I cannot pretend to imagine what this family is going through at this time. I am praying for them."

BRUCE'S HEARTBREAK

After the collision, the motivational speaker was cooperative with authorities. He passed a field sobriety test and submitted a blood sample to prove he was not intoxicated. Bruce's rep says he will also surrender phone records, telling Us, "The evidence will show that Bruce was not texting at the time of the accident." An insider adds that Bruce "knows he wasn't responsible, but he feels terrible. He watched the woman's body being taken out of the car."

Rattled, the gold medalist called his once-estranged son Brody, who sped to the site with girlfriend Kaitlynn Carter. The Hills alum, 31, has "been great for Bruce," says a family pal, adding that the two have grown closer since Dad's 2013 split from ex Kris. Stepdaughter Kim Kardashian, 34, was with husband Kanye West at the Roc Nation pre-Grammy brunch in Beverly Hills when she got a text and "left quickly," according to an attendee. His stepdaughters Kourtney, 35, and Khloé, 30, who were neighbors of the victim, and daughters Kendall, 19, and Kylie, 17, all called to comfort him, says a source: "They all want to be there for him."

BIG REVEAL

As police investigate the crash, Bruce will continue his journey of self-discovery. Though he did not wear feminine makeup during his chat with Sawyer, says a source, he did reveal a name he plans to assume in the near future: "He referred to her in the third person."

He is also mulling a name for his upcoming E! show. Two insiders tell Us Bruce is working with Bunim/Murray Productions, the team behind Keeping Up. "E! wants to see the footage first," says one, "then decide how many episodes."

For now, says a close source, Bruce is just happy to be alive. "Everybody feels for him," says the source. "He's been fighting a private battle and has come so far. Now he's really shaken up." US

At his daughter Bobbi Kristina Brown's bedside, Bobby Brown has been doing what he does best. "He sings hymns to her," an insider says of the New Edition crooner, a near-constant presence in the ICU of Atlanta's Emory University hospital. Other relatives — including grandmother Cissy Houston, 81, and aunt Pat Houston, who flew to Georgia after the 21-year-old was found unresponsive in her bathtub January 31 — provide backup. "The family has been gathering to recite psalms and sing," says the insider. As Bobby told a reporter, "We're praying."

For her recovery — and answers. At presstime, the only child of Bobby, 46, and the late Whitney Houston remains in a medically induced coma with little hope of a full recovery. "It's dire," says a Bobbi Kristina source. Authorities, meanwhile, are looking into unexplained injuries found on her body as well as the circumstances under which the young woman — known as "Krissi" to friends — ended up deprived of oxygen for an unknown amount of time. The focus of their investigation, according to CNN, is Nick Gordon — her boyfriend, not her husband as the two had claimed for more than a year.

Tragedy was not entirely unexpected for the famous daughter of former drug addicts. At best, Bobbi Kristina's childhood was unstable (she tagged along for one of Mom's rehab stints). At worst, it was terrifying (she witnessed at least one fight that led her mother to call police). But even the relative stability that came with her parents' 2007 divorce and Houston's subsequent sobriety didn't last. By the time her superstar mother died in February 2012 — drowning in a hotel bathtub with drugs in her system — the mother-daughter pair had become codependent partiers. Two nights before Houston's death, she and the then–18-year-old downed tequila at an L.A. club. As one Houston family source relayed of Krissi following her mom's funeral: "I don't expect the best for her."

FIGHTING TO SURVIVE

On the last morning of January, Bobbi Kristina woke in the $1.2 million Atlanta-area townhouse she shares with Gordon, 25. He and his pal Max Lomas, 24, had been hanging out there already when an

In 2002, Bobby and Houston took their daughter to VH1's Divas in Las Vegas.

Xfinity Cable technician reportedly rang the bell around 10 A.M. Lomas went to find Krissi, and stumbled upon the scene: "He was the person who first discovered Bobbi Kristina," Lomas' attorney, Phillip A. Holloway, tells Us, "and called 911." Gordon jumped in to perform CPR until paramedics could rush Bobbi Kristina — deprived of oxygen for up to 15 minutes, per some reports — to a nearby hospital.

Loved ones clung to tiny positive signs. ("BOBBI KRISTINA Opened And Closed Her Eyes!" pal Foxy Brown wrote on Instagram February 2.) But after three days of little improvement, she was transferred to Emory to be treated by neurological researcher Dr. Frank Tong. "He's known as the miracle worker," says one source. Still, Dr. John Boockvar, professor of neurological surgery at NYC's Lenox Hill Hospital, says the situation is severe: "As little as five minutes without oxygen can kill neurons in the brain." That assessment is in line with what the family has been told. Says a Bobby source, "Doctors told them it's highly unlikely she'll recover. No news has been good."

BORN INTO TROUBLE

From the day Bobbi Kristina was welcomed by glamorous Houston and bad boy Bobby in 1993, her life has been a challenge. Houston admitted to Oprah Winfrey in 2009 that her drug use "started getting heavy" after Krissi's birth. And an infant Bobbi Kristina often went days without having her diaper changed as her parents got high, according to a 2012 Newsweek story. In the late '90s, Brown kicked Houston — and their young daughter — off his tour bus, leaving them on the side of the road. Houston, the article stated, had been doing cocaine in front of her husband, who had just left rehab. A band member scooped them up. (Brown told Matt Lauer in 2012 that he'd been "off of narcotics for the last seven years.")

But that was hardly the lowest point. After the duo invited Bravo cameras into their home for the 2005 train-wreck Being Bobby Brown, their marriage devolved to physical altercations. One took place in front of Bobbi Kristina. "He spit on me," Houston, who then hit him on the head with a phone, recalled to Winfrey. "She saw it."

The fights prompted Houston to leave them both and flee to California. "I placed her with my brother, Gary, and my sister-in-law," she said. "They took care of her." When mother and daughter were reunited, "they became more like best friends," says one insider. That meant Bobbi Kristina, again, got a front-row seat to the diva's hard-partying habits

NICK'S HEARING IS DELAYED

The duo (last January) claimed they wed in 2014.

Nick Gordon will get his day in court — eventually. A Fulton State Court clerk announced February 9 that his case for criminal driving (he was pulled over for going more than double the speed limit in November 2012) scheduled for that day had been postponed. But Bobbi Kristina's love is facing a more serious situation. CNN reports he's under investigation as police try to pinpoint how his girlfriend ended up facedown in her bathtub. The Browns and Houstons aren't waiting for a verdict, however. A source speculates Gordon has been banned from her hospital room: "He hasn't been there since last weekend."

Krissi (with Houston in 1999) got WH and MOM tattooed on her wrists in 2012, Teresa Mellas of Atlanta's Inksomnia Tattoo tells Us: "She said she was her guardian angel."

THE ESTATE AT STAKE

Houston left a $20 million fortune to her daughter. But about $18 million was to remain in a trust until her 30th birthday, says a source. If Krissi dies, the trust would go to Houston's mom and siblings. But unless Krissi has a will, says attorney Randall M. Kesller, the funds she's already received go to her next of kin: dad Bobby.

— and picked up a few of her own. Says a source, "Whitney and Bobby passed on their addictions."

LIFE AFTER MOM

After Houston passed, "Bobbi went off the rails," says a family insider. She ignored her relatives' worries (aunt Pat fretted about her underage drinking on The Houstons: On Our Own) and iced out her dad. "She blamed him for a lot of things because of what her mom said," the insider says of Bobby, who ditched Houston's funeral over a seating snub. "They didn't speak much."

That left Gordon. To the dismay of her family, she and Gordon — raised by Houston from age 12 as Krissi's brother — became romantically involved. "She wrapped herself up with Nick," says a source. Even career opportunities couldn't draw her out. When family friend Tyler Perry offered her roles, says an insider, "she wanted to be with Nick instead."

Now, with Gordon under investigation, her long-estranged father has Bobbi Kristina's life in his hands. As tensions build — several of Bobby's relatives got into a bloody brawl at Atlanta's W Hotel February 6 — Bobby is still holding out for a miracle. "He hasn't accepted that his daughter might not come back," says a friend. "He's worried he won't be able to say goodbye." US

TLC's Sister Wives polygamists change the pecking order with a surprise divorce

BY SARAH GROSSBART

WIFE SWAP

As reality TV's first polygamist family, the Browns strive to present a frank picture of plural marriage. On TLC's Sister Wives (Sundays, 9 P.M.), they have been open about sex (when asked about threesomes, patriarch Kody replied, "We don't go weird"), squabbles and spousal standing. First wife Meri joked that as Kody's sole legal mate, "I have the power to pull the plug."

Now, a new woman is in charge. On February 3, TMZ revealed that Kody, 47, secretly divorced Meri, 44, last fall and legally wed fourth wife Robyn, 36, months later. (The duo had a commitment ceremony in 2010 attended by his other spiritual wives, Janelle, 45, and Christine, 42.) But the fundamentalist Mormon family insists Meri has not abandoned her husband of 25 years and the clan's 17 kids.

Robyn (in 2010) says she felt a "jolt of lightning" meeting Kody.

"We made this decision together," the Browns told Us in a statement, calling the change "legal restructure."

HONEYMOON'S OVER

The shuffle allows Kody to become legal guardian of Dayton, 15, Aurora, 12, and Breanna, 9, Robyn's kids from an allegedly abusive first marriage. (She and Kody also have son

Kody has called being wed to Meri, Janelle, Christine and Robyn (clockwise from left) "emotional work."

Solomon, 3.) But despite the wives' blessings, the move has created tension in the Las Vegas–based family. Meri, who has confessed to being jealous of Robyn, posted a cryptic tweet January 29: "Stay real, stay loyal or stay away from me." And Robyn — who Christine calls a "trophy wife" — tweeted January 25, "It is always tough giving up the ideal of what a plural family means to you." US

Kody (with 16 of his 17 kids in 2010) claims polygamy helps him "connect with God."

INSIDE THEIR PLURAL MARRIAGE

➜ They live in four houses on one street

Kody, Meri, Janelle, Christine and Robyn are among roughly 10,000 fundamentalist Mormons in the United States who believe the Old Testament teaches that men should have multiple wives. The family used to live under the same 3,250-square-foot roof in Lehi, Utah. But after Sister Wives sparked a 2010 criminal investigation into their polygamy, they fled to Las Vegas. Now the women have separate houses on a cul-de-sac, and Kody sleeps in a different one each night. "I don't want a guy around all the time," Christine has said. "It's too much work."

➜ PDA is banned

Out of respect, Kody refrains from showing affection to one mate in front of the others. Reserving physical contact for the bedroom, Meri has said, makes their arrangement less emotional: "We know, but you don't have to have it shoved in your face."

➜ Two wives work

Breadwinner Kody depleted his retirement savings after the move. Now he sells health products for Liv International. Also contributing to the collective household: Janelle, a self-described "workaholic" real estate agent, and Robyn, who sells inspirational jewelry (think FAITH, HOPE, HEALTH charms) via the struggling My Sister-wife's Closet website. Meri, who lost a counseling job in a teen center because of her lifestyle, is back in college.

The sister wives customized their Las Vegas abodes.

➜ Yes, the wives' cycles have synced

Kody regularly blames his spouses' PMS when they dare stand up to him. Which just makes Janelle angrier. "It frustrates me beyond belief when women are reduced to our biology," she fumed in a recent episode.

➜ Premarriage kissing is not allowed

Makeouts lead to heartbreak, Kody warned Mykelti, 18 (daughter of Christine). "The hormones go into your mouth," he explained, "and stimulate both the heart and the body." Dad, however, did not practice what he preaches: He kissed Robyn before their wedding day.

➜ Some kids will shun polygamy

While Meri's only daughter, Mariah, 19, expects to follow Mom's footsteps, her siblings aren't all on board. When asked about sharing a future spouse, college student Aspyn, 19 (Christine's eldest), responded, "Eww!" Janelle's daughter Madison, 19, went a step further last season, announcing that she would leave the sect.

TYREESE'S DEAD END

Chad L. Coleman grieves his gentle giant's demise

It's a fact of life on The Walking Dead: Major characters get killed. But when Chad L. Coleman's costars learned last fall that his quiet hero Tyreese would die, they took the news hard. "Danai Gurira was like, 'That's bulls--t, man!'" says the Richmond, Virginia, native, 48. But not even Gurira's mighty Michonne could save Tyreese, who was chomped by a zombie on the February 8 episode of the AMC thriller (Sundays, 9 P.M.). A cast member since 2012, the single dad of SaCha, 15, and Caleb, 19 months, gives Us his exit interview.

Q: When did you know Tyreese would die?
Three episodes prior to filming it, Scott M. Gimple, the showrunner, said, "The time has come for Tyreese to go." I said, "You're joking." Then I looked at him, and he teared up. I just kept going, "Wow."

Q: Lots of tears at your farewell dinner?
Absolutely. Emily Kinney [Beth, who was killed the episode before] and I had one together. It was outside around a campfire. It was so filled with love.

Q: Your daughter is a huge Dead fan. Did you tell her Tyreese's fate?
I said, "Baby, do not tell anyone!" She was shocked, but she sees that I'm OK with it. It's been an amazing ride.

Q: She's an actor too. Are you proud?
Unbelievably. In 2010, she made her Broadway debut in Fences with Denzel Washington and Viola Davis. To see her hold her own with those titans was a beautiful thing. ERIC ANDERSSON

TOUR DE FORCE Set to reprise his role as a Jedi knight in December's Star Wars: Episode VII — The Force Awakens, the dad of three (with wife Marilou York, 59) says the trailer's fall release was a family affair. How Meghan Kicks Butt

Pop star Trainor tells Us about bonding with Jimmy Fallon and trying confidence on for size

Meghan Trainor wasn't always all about that bass. "When I started performing, I was only pretending to be confident," admits the singer behind the body-positive (and five-time platinum) groove. Seven months after her debut single's release, the Grammy-nominated star, 21, tells Us she has learned to embrace her curves: "I like myself more, which was hard to do before. Now I'm all about my shape." The Nantucket, Massachusetts, native and self-described "supersingle" star, whose 31-city world tour kicks off in Vancouver, British Columbia, February 11, tells Us more about her "booty revolution."

Q: Have your fans helped give you a new perspective?
Definitely! All these little girls have come up to me saying, "'All About That Bass' changed my life." And after seeing the reaction from the crowds when I perform it, and hearing them sing my lyrics over and over again, I walk off stage like, "OK, I feel good. I'm a boss!"

Q: Do you have a favorite experience so far?
Playing with Jimmy Fallon and the Roots on The Tonight Show. As soon as I walked in, they were cracking jokes. I immediately felt comfortable. And they were singing my song! Everything about that day was amazing.

Q: Spill: Whose rear end are you all about?
J. Lo's! I saw it in real life and was blown away.

OPENS FRIDAY 2/13

Fifty Shades of Grey

O, no! The anticipated — but disappointing — sexual thriller fails to satisfy

Boy meets girl. Boy likes girl. Boy asks girl to be his sexual submissive. That kinky love story sparked a bestselling phenomenon — but its adaptation is a limp bore. For those unenlightened, Anastasia Steele (Dakota Johnson) is a virginal, soon-to-be college grad sent to interview 27-year-old billionaire Christian Grey (Jamie Dornan). As soon as she bites her lower lip in his office, he decides to pursue her. Little does Ana know that the emotionally tortured Mr. Grey is 50 shades of f--ked up! (His words.) Instead of dinner dates, he wants her to contractually agree to be whipped and chained in his Red Room of Pain. That's the whole plot, so let's talk about the sex, baby. Though the scenes visually don't leave much to the imagination, they're as sterile as a doctor's office. The two stars, speaking in stilted dialogue, muster up zero passion. And Dornan, in particular, looks uncomfortable in the controversial role. (The sweet Johnson fares better.) Beyond the raunch, nothing will convince audiences that this pair belong together. Christian not only comes off like a creepy cipher, his method of wooing — piano playing! aerial rides! — is a Pretty Woman rip-off. Just shut the door, honey, and hope for a more pleasurable sequel.

Jordan and Kendrick try to maintain a long-distance romance.

OPENS FRIDAY 2/13

The Last Five Years

We already know the talented Anna Kendrick can sing lush fairy tales and a cappella pop songs. Now she expands her range to original love songs in this inspired (and often melancholic) musical. In the opening scene, Kendrick's Cathy cries on her bed in NYC and laments that her husband, Jamie (Smash alum Jeremy Jordan), "is gone." She then melodically chronicles the couple's love story going backward, while her ex croons his perspective from the beginning of the courtship. Detailing the ups and downs of romance, the two enchant on screen. (Kendrick gushing about her engagement is a joy to behold.) Just make a note: The wall-to-wall singing may cause some squirming.

OPENS FRIDAY 2/13

The Rewrite

★★½☆

Hugh Grant's new comedy is as comforting and well-worn as a blanket on a cold day. He stars as a jaded has-been screenwriter forced to take a teaching job at a college in upstate New York. Soon, the usual quirky mix of faculty and students fixates over this new guy from Hollywood as if he's Brad Pitt. Passages of this predictable flick could use a you-know-what, though role-players J.K. Simmons and Marisa Tomei do class it up. (Also on VOD)

Grant sleeps with one of his students.

Kingsman: The Secret Service

★★½☆

A dapper British spy uses nifty gadgets and winking humor to defeat a megalomaniac. Yup, director Matthew Vaughn (Kick-Ass) aims high with his slick James Bond throwback. But prepare to be shaken — not stirred — by the obscene violence splayed across the screen for entertainment value. Plot time: Harry (Colin Firth) recruits a blue-collar punk (Taron Egerton) to join the Kingsman, an espionage agency. Their goal is to stop an evil techie (Samuel L. Jackson, who bellows with a distracting lisp) from achieving global genocide. Ugh. Set pieces manage to be both bold (skydiving!) and old (explosions!). A bloody shoot-out set in a church, however, is just cold.

The wacky-opposites shtick is cute when plausible, flat when it goes to extremes (Felix shelf-papers a medicine cabinet?). How Stars Get FLAWLESS SKIN

Chrissy Teigen

Darden advocates monthly facials to "keep skin in balance."

Jessica Alba

Amanda, Rosie, Chrissy and Jessica have one thing in common: L.A. facialist Shani Darden. The guru (who sees some of the women once a week!) shares her best advice with Us

Aroma Matte Day Cream with SPF 30, $49, control corrective .com

Delay Aging

Shani Darden, 40, who trained with L.A. dermatologist Erma Benitez, says wearing sunscreen daily prevents short-term damage even she can't repair. "Sun affects the deepest layers of skin," warns Darden. "It only takes one day." This client fave is a creamy zinc oxide blend.

Tazorac gel, by prescription

Fight Fine Lines

Those who can tolerate daily doses of retinol should rotate in Tazorac once a week, says Darden. The prescription-strength gel she calls "one of the most potent retinoids" seeps into pores and triggers collagen production, reducing the look of crow's-feet and laugh lines.

Firm Overnight

Supplement the surge of skin-tightening, wrinkle-reducing growth hormones during the final stages of a sleep cycle with restorative molecules, says Darden. Her pick: Dr. Dennis Gross' peptide-packed cream. It also contains CoQ10, which protects against free radicals.

Boost Radiance

Darden, the self-dubbed "Olivia Pope of facials," recommends microdermabrasion, LED light therapy and chemical peels to even skin tone. After clients' treatments, she smoothes on Laura Mercier's tinted primer. "It has amazing coverage," she raves. "And it's lightweight."

Resurface by Shani Darden Retinol Reform, $95, shani darden.com

Reverse Damage

Darden considers retinol her holy grail. The vitamin A derivative, she says, "spurs new cells to grow, and sun spots — the old, damaged ones — to slough off." She recommends first-time users massage on two pumps of her retinol-infused serum one night per week.

iS Clinical Active Serum, $128, dermstore .com

Manage Breakouts

An acne specialist, Darden prescribes three drops daily of a glycolic, lactic and salicylic acid serum, which exfoliates dead skin cells that can clog pores. For a quicker fix, she suggests deep-cleaning with an antibacterial sulfur mask.
